Smouldering Fire In Chopped Feed

A call for help was received in town Monday morning when a smoldering fire was found in the feed lot of Pete Holm's barn. Quickly men were on the place and worked strenuously to shovel out the chopped feed which fortunately did not break out into a blaze, the flooring was almost charred through. With the strong wind blowing it might have been a different tale if flames had started up, as house and other buildings might have gone. It was a hungry bunch, about thirty, who had lunch on the farm after clearing the stuff out around two in the afternoon.

Start A New Season

The Badminton Club held their annual meeting on Friday night, October 25th. The following officers were elected for the coming season:

Hon. President—Rev. Peter Dawson.
President—Charles Luchina.
Vice President—Miss Barbara Baslin.
Secretary—Mrs. W. A. McIntyre.

The fees were set at $5.00 for the five months season, and membership limited to twenty-five in the senior club.

The opening night was Monday, October 28th, and fifteen old and new members were present. Badminton got away to a good start and the Club anticipates one of the best ever.

Back From The North

Dr. N. H. Heel returned recently from an extended summer tour of northern trading posts transacting distillery work under government contract. Upon return, negotiations were made with Dr. Nicol, who has been in charge of his practice here and at Vulcan during his absence, for the purchase of the business. Dr. Nicol has now taken over the practice and made arrangements in last week's issue of the Chronicle. Dr. Heel has made no future plans as yet.

Funeral Last Wednesday

There was a large attendance at the funeral on Wednesday of last week of Lyman Abbot Jopling who had passed away Sunday from an attack of pneumonia. Rev. Dawson officiated at the service that was held in the Confraternity Hall, the burial took place in Lethbridge.

He was born in Exeter, North Dakota, and received his early education in Colorado and California. He was of a generous nature, charitably disposed and was esteemed by a large circle who deeply regret his death. He was a member of the Champion Masonic Lodge. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Jopling, Champion, and four brothers, Harvey and A. W. of Champion, V. S. of Calgary, and John of Yakima, Wash., and one sister, Mrs. N. M. St. Peter, Milo.

Card of Thanks

We wish to convey our deepest appreciation and thanks to the friends and neighbors who so kindly came to our assistance during our recent bereavement. We would especially like to thank Dr. Freese, Miss Marjorie Hopkins and Miss B. Card of Lethbridge for their untiring efforts during the illness of our loved one.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Jopling and family.

Wedding Bells

Callaghan—Ohlheiser

A very pretty and impressive wedding ceremony took place in the Catholic church at Champion on Tuesday morning, October 22nd, at ten o'clock, when Eva, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Ohlheiser was united in marriage to John, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Callaghan.

The bride, wearing a gown of beige lace and tulle with hat to match and carrying a bouquet of deep rose carnations, entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Mrs. Tony Bush. She was attended by her sister Edna, who wore a dress of coral pink crepe with matching cape and white accessories.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Philip Fath, cousin of the bride.

At the foot of the altar, which was beautifully adorned for the occasion, the bridal party was received by Rev. Father Cunningham, the parish priest, in whose presence they pronounced their marriage vows. Nuptial mass was then celebrated, served by Messrs. Robert and Jerry Fath, cousins of the bride. During the mass several beautiful solos were rendered by Mrs. J. Hunziger, who chose Rosini's "Ave Maria" as the Offertory piece. After the nuptial mass Father Cunningham gave benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, and this concluded the ceremony.

A buffet lunch was served at the home of the bride's parents to which relatives and intimate friends were invited.

The newly weds are planning a short honeymoon trip to Calgary after which they will reside on the groom's farm in the Champion district.

Befus—Wise

Wednesday, October 23rd, at 6 p.m. in St. John's Lutheran church, Calgary the marriage was solemnized between Reisel Barbara Wise, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wise, Champion, and Mr. John Befus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Befus, Calgary, the Rev. K. Hufeld officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin with accessories to match. Her long veil was held together by a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of orange mums. Attending the bride was Miss Marion Patterson, dressed in a gown of yellow crepe and carrying lavender and pink mums.

Supporting the bridegroom was his brother, Mr. Adam Befus. The ushers were Mr. Alex Mangley and Mr. Adam Befus, both of Calgary. The wedding march was played by Miss Margaret Patterson, entitled "Wedding Bells." As the bridal party left the altar she played the "Fifth Nocturne."

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Befus, Calgary, brother of the groom. The guests attending were: Mr. and Mrs. F. Wise, parents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. C. Befus, parents of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Befus, Calgary, and Mrs. E. H. Befus, Calgary, brother of the groom. The guests attending were: Mr. and Mrs. F. SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home of what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy retires out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and witness the path Aurora took to the town.

added: "If all those complimentary newspaper reporters knew I was terrified at the thought of ending my days in a wheel-chair, I guess they'd be rightfully disillusioned!"

"Disillusioned?" Matt's eyes flashed with protective indignation. "Disillusioned? Why—"

"Are you planning to stay to dinner, Matt?" Adam called Aurora shrilly. "If so, and you're willing to carry up three trays, you and Miss Columbine can eat with Nancy. What say?"

CHAPTER XXII.

"I am well aware, dear Cousin James," wrote Columbine Nelson on the first day of May, "how anxious you are to get your heroic young folks back; but nevertheless, I am going to ask a favor: Let them stay until Jack has time to fill out again. He looked so splendid the morning they started off for Prairie Ranch that I can't bear to send him home to you as guest as he is now. A few weeks of careful feeding will wonder at his appearance; and Aurora 'Tubs' is itching to 'fat him up' as she expresses it. If I may say just what I think, I am sure they'll have a chance to see no more of this wonderful country; and your old cousin will be far happier."

A note from Nancy added her plea: "Don't ever think that we're not crazy to see you all, but Jack is a trouper, and Aurora's marvelous cooking ought to fix that in no time. Then too, 'Uncle Tom and Aunt Ena' want us to stay in the country. Just say to convince us, I imagine, that the plains can be warm and friendly as well as cold and cruel. A visit there will be something to remember; and anyway, Jack refuses to go home until he's husky enough to handle the pick and shovel and can straighten up the gate posts at Cousin Columbine's driveway. They trouble him a great deal more than you do her (I); but she does want the house painted, and couldn't afford to because she paid our fares out here. Aurora told me that. I guess Aurora didn't make any great deal in Leadville; and I shan't accept a penny of the 'salary' she offered as help in that cynical letter. Your wandering girl will return as poor as she started out!"

Now Go On With The Story

He blushed a little; and Nancy said: "I'll admit that Jack is a little plucky to leave even the cold shelter of that bus, you know. But to make a fuss over me is—just ridiculous!"

"He has been a coward to watch those kiddies freeze to death and not do anything I would!"

"Was silence a moment before Matt asked: 'Do you remember the last time we sat under the old pine tree?' You told me then that your courage had never been tested and you wondered how you'd show up in a pinch. Well, you know now, don't you?"

"I'd forgotten that," she answered softly; then lowered her voice still more, her face flushing a little. "That's what you tell me something honest!" I can't ask Cousin Columbine, I look so worn and tired; and I've got to know it's about my feet. These papers said I'd lost them—that the knees were frozen solid to the knees. Was that the truth?"

"Yes, that was true, Nancy. I never going to forget the way I felt when the nurse told me an amputation wasn't necessary. I wanted to cheer or cry or something. Miss Columbine did cry when I told her."

"Nancy swallowed, and it struck the young man that she was still frightened."

"Is there something else you want to know, Nancy?"

"Only—only—well, Mark carried me upstairs when I came home, Matt. Are my feet really all right, or—"

"So she'd been trying these acting cheerful and worrying about that thought Matthew. Oh, she was wonderful!"

"Are you planning to stay to dinner, Matt?" Adam called Aurora shrilly. "If so, and you're willing to carry up three trays, you and Miss Columbine can eat with Nancy. What say?"

"I am well aware, dear Cousin James," wrote Columbine Nelson on the first day of May, "how anxious you are to get your heroic young folks back; but nevertheless, I am going to ask a favor: Let them stay until Jack has time to fill out again. He looked so splendid the morning they started off for Prairie Ranch that I can't bear to send him home to you as guest as he is now. If I may say just what I think, I am sure they'll have a chance to see no more of this wonderful country; and your old cousin will be far happier."

A note from Nancy added her plea: "Don't ever think that we're not crazy to see you all, but Jack is a trouper, and Aurora's marvelous cooking ought to fix that in no time. Then too, 'Uncle Tom and Aunt Ena' want us to stay in the country. Just say to convince us, I imagine, that the plains can be warm and friendly as well as cold and cruel. A visit there will be something to remember; and anyway, Jack refuses to go home until he's husky enough to handle the pick and shovel and can straighten up the gate posts at Cousin Columbine's driveway. They trouble him a great deal more than you do her (I); but she does want the house painted, and couldn't afford to because she paid our fares out here. Aurora told me that. I guess Aurora didn't make any great deal in Leadville; and I shan't accept a penny of the 'salary' she offered as help in that cynical letter. Your wandering girl will return as poor as she started out!"

"But I'm feeling wonderful now, my feet are as good as new. The library's booming; and I still get something of a kick when any one addresses me as 'Miss Aladdin.' I've gone back on New England, Daddy; but I'll miss the library and those 'big open spaces' Easterners joke about. Tell Phil I'm sending him some real Indian arrowheads."

"Though the family at Edgemere was disappointed, this plan was obviously best for Jack, and they did not protest. The boy's strength returned more rapidly than Cousin Columbine anticipated; and by the middle of May they ventured to make some of the long-promised excursions to places not far distant enough to tire him."

"I'm sick to death of putting up picnic lunches," grumbled Aurora one bright May morning. "And why anybody in their senses should go to Cripple Creek when they could stay away, is something entirely beyond me. Not a tree in the whole town. Nancy Nelson! Not a growing tree! I teach you count stage; and those awful prospect holes all over the hills look in for all the world like open graves for a cemetery. And here's Miss Columbine as excited over the trip as if she'd never seen a mine's town, let alone lived in one of the peaky places for months on end! Jack, you're to drink every drop of milk in this tremor bottle; and if you feel like to dig out the cane, you may as well. They're powerful fattenin', as I ought to know if anybody does. It is true the Adams' takin' a whole lot of chicken? I hope for your sakes her husband has the cookin' of it. Looks like the Adams are neglectin' everything these days to take you gallavanti. It's a wonder they stop to milk the cows."

"Eve Adam laughed when Nancy repeated this caustic comment. "Who cares, my dear? We'll make up the neglected work after you leave us and it won't be long before we see how Miss Columbine enjoys these trips. It gives her a new lease of life to visit the old scenes and talk of those times with young folks who are really interested."

Jack thrilled over that trip to Cripple Creek; but the day after the return of the Adams' from the Colorado hills, stood out, a high light, in Nancy's memory. This was during the first week in June, a day with soft, white clouds drifting across the sky, and air like midsummer. Their road led past ranches where men were ploughing immense acres; then on through mile after mile of yellow pines. Seated between Mark and Matthew in the old truck (the com-

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

fort of the new edon being given over the older Adams, Cousin Columbine, and Jack, Nancy caught her breath at occasional glimpses of distant mountains, some snow-rimmed.

"I'm all but speechless over this scenery," she confessed, while at her enthusiasm, "yet those two idlers—Miss Aladdin, I've a notion that our Luke and Mary Taylor, seated on cushions in the rear," she jabbered away as if there were no "wonders to behold." What else then?"

"Love's young dream, lady," Mark opined as he slowed down for a "thank-you-ma'am." "Loko's always been more or less what Aurora calls 'sweet on Mary'; and that girl has certainly blossomed out just lately, him some real Indian arrowheads."

Nancy laughed; and Matt said solemnly: "With all due respect to Miss Aladdin, I've a notion that our kid brother is responsible for that change in Mary Taylor." He turned to view the unsuspecting couple seated before, and added: "At any rate, they're both oblivious to the scenery!"

Mark chuckled, and rounding a curve, announced: "Here's your picnic cemetery, Nancy—the one Miss Columbine told about. Shall we view it from here, or are you determined to climb that slope in this hot sun?"

"What did we come for?" the girl responded; and as Matt sprang down she took his steady hand and followed. "I wouldn't miss seeing this place for anything. Aren't you all coming?"

Mark shook his head. "I'm starving. I'm going to forage in the lunch box. What do you say, folks?"

"That was addressed to Luke and Mary to whom the lunch box seemed more alluring than the cemetery. So it was with Matt alone that Nancy explored that tragic spot, looking down soberly on graves protected only by sagging fences, the marking on their wooden headboards almost obliterated—some wholly lost amid an overgrowth of weeds and bushes."

Perhaps it was the history of the place that silenced the young people. Neither spoke for a time; and then Nancy stooped, laying a spray of blossoming pink kinnikinnick on one small unmarked resting place.

"Somebody's baby," she explained, flushing a bit for fear that Matt would think her sentimental; but to her relief he said:

"And all because of one man's greed. I'd hate to be responsible for such a place, Nancy; yet when my time comes I'd rather lie in this wild tangle than in a city cemetery with a name that means no more, and a 'perpetual care' sign over my head."

His voice was thoughtful, and with sudden inspiration the girl quoted:

"Under the wide and starry sky
Diy gray and let me lie,
"Is that how you feel, Matt?" His eyes lighted at her intuition; but before he could reply, Mark's laughing voice broke in upon them.

"Back to the car, all of you!—young lady; but you two seem to have forgotten that we're on our way to the cemetery. Let's go with us, but they're too lazy to get out, and Jack's already explored this melancholy scene. There's still ten or twelve miles ahead if we're to sail our lunch on the shore of the Platte, as Miss Columbine has set her heart on doing. Have some cake!"

Matthew, who longed to strangle his brother for this intrusion, nevertheless accepted his portion with good grace; while Nancy exclaimed:

"You've saved my life, Mark! I'm almost passing out. Isn't the Platte a river we read about in history? I mean the one the pioneers were always foraging!"

Little Helps For This Week

Love is of God, and every one that loveth is born of God and knoweth God. I John 4:7.

Bearing one another and forgiving one another. Colossians 3:13.

Oh, might we all sinners. Give and receive, do good and love; By God's endowments, in kind attire, Lightening the daily load of life.

We may if we choose make the worst of our condition. Every one of his faults, every one of his weak points, and we may fix our attention constantly on these. But we may also make the best of one another. We may forgive even as we hope to be forgiven. We may put ourselves in the place of others and ask ourselves what we would wish to be done to us were we in their place. By loving whatever is lovable in those around us, love will flow back from them to us and life will be a pleasure indeed instead of a pain. Earth will become like heaven and we shall not be unworthy followers of Him whose name is Love.

And he couldn't give a proper address without a live exhibit. So into the classroom walked Johnny leading a white pony, with a saddle 'n' everything. He made a good speech, too.

The main news of this week is the snow storm that came during Sunday night, and continued up to Tuesday evening. The wind was in the north with the snow of the powdery kind drifting around to make getting about hard. It has put a crimp into business, and some children had a tough time going to and from school. The soil will welcome the moisture, though hard to say how much has fallen on account of the drifting, there is quite a little perhaps as much as the last one or a little better.

A Great Day for Pigs

Whether credit can be given to the change of government or not, there is a decidedly liberal or homotous atmosphere on the farm of Mrs. G. O. Hummel (Barney Hummel's mother) in Hinesworth, Ontario, Thursday, the 17th, was a particularly eventful day, when three autumn pigs presented their owner with no less than 40 piglets, all within a few hours. The first had 12, the second 11, and the third 17. One wonders how many a fourth sow might have had in this parade.

The FIRESIDE PHILOSOPHER[®]
BY ALFRED BIGGS

True love asks nothing in return.
Who men are at home anywhere.
An ounce of example is worth a ton of precept.
Universal honesty would bankrupt localities.
Associate with those who know more than you know.
Fussing over small matters destroys ability to tackle big ones.
Those who boast of many friends are generally advertising themselves.

Fall Work On The Farm

In the period before the freeze-up work on the farm divides itself into those things that have to be done and those things we would like to do.

A walk around the Station those days finds the foreman very anxious to get all ploughing done in irrigated land, and it is very noticeable that moisture received recently has put the land in good condition for this work. Those irrigated fields which are likely to drift are being ridged. Every advantage is being taken of the favourable soil conditions to get all this work done as soon as possible.

Rigging of fences, corns and buildings is a seasonal job while the weather keeps fair, but there is nothing more uncomfortable than hammering nails when the weather is cold and there is snow on the ground. Colony houses for hogs are being cleaned and banked with straw, and a general clean up is in progress around the buildings.

The poultryman is busy cleaning up his houses. After showing out old litter he scrubs the walls and floors with a solution of lye; one can to a gallon of cold water. An old bucket is used for this purpose since this lye wash must not come in contact with the hands or face. The roosts are painted with nicotine sulphate about 15 minutes before dark. When the birds go to roost the heat from their bodies causes fumes to develop from the nicotine sulphate, and these fumes are deadly to any lice which might be present on the birds. Care is taken to see that all birds are on the roosts. Clean birds in a clean house is the first requisite for egg production.

It may be well to suggest that the past summer's work is still fresh in mind, a note be made of any needed repairs to implements. That hay wire which served in a pinch might lay you down in a hurry when the rush of spring work comes. The important working parts of each implement should be carefully inspected for necessary replacements.

Don't forget to attend the Corn and Seed Fair at Lethbridge on November 8th and 9th, and if you have any 'praising' material you still have time to clean it up and compete with your neighbours.

Ed. Latiff who has been taking treatment in Edmonton, returned on Wednesday of last week, looking better.

LIBERTY'S
CANADIAN
HALL OF FAME
No. 13

Canada's most astonishing citizen is Sir William Mulock, ninety-one year old Chief Justice of Ontario and Chancellor of the University of Toronto, the man with the Dominion's most prodigious memory who never takes a note—yet remembers every date, place and face.

Seven decades in the public spotlight, he expects to be in harness when he passes one hundred although exactly when that will be, he doesn't know. The one thing he cannot remember is his age.

He is careful about punctuality, wears a twinkle in his eye that escapes some strangers and legal luminaries who think they can confound him, stands erect and is well over six feet. He is a terror to gangsters and communists but has no personal notes. Loves a little of things including Empire Club speeches, his Alma Mater and poetry.

Delights in amusing his friends by proving his ability to recite entire poems when prompted by a single line. He also cuts amazing capers one of which was an all night 'bedroom' jammer when early evening guests at his house had excused themselves thinking that he wanted to go to bed.

He was the first Minister of Labor and the originator of penny postage rates in Canada as well as the Pacific cable stretching to Australia and New Zealand. He unified the Universities of Toronto and Victoria and coordinated the work among the Ontario School of Medicine, the Ontario Colleges of Dentistry, Pharmacy, Veterinary, Agriculture.

Sir William is wealthy but he doesn't hamper him. He has enjoyed honors since U of T school days in 1885.
